THE CITY OF OAKLAND.

AGAIN it becomes the duty of the compiler to lay before the public, through the annual edition of the City Directory, such facts and figures as shall serve to some extent to illustrate the degree of prosperity which Oakland has enjoyed, and the advancement which she has made during another year of her history. While the statistical information given in the following pages does not show that wonderfully rapid growth which characterized several former years, evidence is given of a healthy progress and of many substantial gains. Oakland is so situated that so long as the State of California gives any sign of vitality she must share in its effect. The almost total cessation of immigration from the East for a long period has temporarily subjected one of Oakland's prime industries, that of the building interest, to comparative stagnation. Yet as our carefully prepared statistics show that not less than five hundred and twelve buildings were erected within the city limits during the year 1879, the assessed valuation of property increased from $27,730,000 to $28,348,000. Extensive improvements have been made and still greater are in progress and contemplated by the Central Pacific Railroad Company upon the west and south of the city. These improvements are such as to show that it is the fixed purpose of that corporation to concentrate within our borders an enormous shipping interest, one that cannot fail to perpetually augment the resources of the city, whose growth must be co-relative to that of the State, and in fact of the Coast. Further appropriations by Congress for harbor improvements, coupled with such conditions as can be accepted by all parties, also give new encouragement. Competing lines of railway are also in course of construction, with promise of early completion. Trade and travel both from northern and southern counties will ere long find its way here. The material growth of the city is evinced by the expenditure of over a million of dollars in improvements. Still better is the financial showing; no further indebtedness has been incurred, and the public school department has been maintained with increased efficiency. New manufacturing enterprises are being inaugurated with a promise of securing to all who desire to labor, steady employment. So many are the advantages and attractions of Oakland as a place of residence, that people from all parts of the State are here constantly seeking homes. Many new suburban residences of great beauty have been erected, and others are being built. The equable climate, the unsurpassed educational facilities, easy and rapid transit to the commercial metropolis, all tend to concentrate population here. Yet the returns of the Federal Census, now being taken, will disappoint many. The truth is, the population not only of Oakland, but of San Francisco, and in fact of nearly all American cities, has been estimated too high. Oakland will show about 35,000 inhabitants, an increase unparalleled in the State or Union during the past ten years. At the last enumeration, that of 1870, the population was but 10,000. We regret that the exact figures are unattainable for this issue of the Directory, as the canvass is yet incomplete.

Real Estate.

The long continued activity which characterized the real estate market of Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda for several years, has not been evident during the past year. Sales have been limited and prices have not been maintained, except for choice business property. Residence property in choice locations is, however, much sought for by persons of large means and those retiring from business. Especially is this true of suburban property and sites commanding extensive views. Washington street property has also held its own well, and the establishment of wholesale houses on that thoroughfare has a tendency to raise values. Auction sales of outside lots have been unsuccessful and nothing but an upward turn in business affairs will restore the old time buoyancy of prices. The location of manufactories in this city will have a more direct and immediate effect upon the prices of real estate than any other cause. And it is gratifying to know that prospects are good for the early erection of important industrial works in our midst.

The usual annual record of sales is omitted owing to the fact that no compilations have been made, but it may be stated that estimates by the best authorities do not place the figures at above three millions of dollars for the year 1879. Even this figure may be considered as an exceedingly favorable indication for Oakland, in a period like that through which we have been passing.

Building Improvements.

Contrary to the almost universally accredited predictions at the opening of the building season of 1879, a smaller number of houses has been erected than for any year since 1873. The causes of this comparative quiet in building operations are plainly apparent. Social agitations in the metropolis, tended to render capital wary; the unusually light immigration limited the demand for houses; shrinkage of values and of rents rendered residence property less remunerative; and the lack of an extended system of manufacturing industries left numbers without regular employment and consequently without the incentive even when possessing the means for building homes. Great activity in building had prevailed for several years, hundred of stores and thousands of dwellings had been erected, a large part which were for rent or for sale on installments—hence with new comers arriving in but limited numbers the supply of houses of late has been nearly up to the demand, and the city has, in common parlance, “taken a rest.”

This term in Oakland does not mean absolute inactivity, but rather a gradual and healthy growth. Accurate reports have been made weekly by the city's statistician, which summarized show that five hundred and twelve houses of all classes were built during the year 1879 at an aggregate cost, as ascertained from the owners, builders or architects, of $1,021,115. Citizens of Oakland can point with some degree of pride to even such a record of substantial progress during a period of doubt, depression and comparative stagnation.

BUSINESS HOUSES ERECTED.

One brick block, located on San Pablo Avenue, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets, was built by Remillard Bros., at a cost of $12,000.

Eighty-five structures of wood, designed for business purposes, were erected at a cost in the aggregate of $115,250. In this list are included stores, manufactories, shops, offices, etc. Among the more important may be mentioned the Clinton Flouring Mills, the East Oakland Planing Mills, the Grove-street Planing Mills, and May's Livery Stables and Depot of the Brooklyn and Fruit Vale Railroad Company, all rebuilt after destruction by fire, the Oakland Soap Works and Bettmann's Block on East Central Avenue.

Total number buildings, 421. Total cost, $795,165.

New residences of which especial mention may be made are those of—

Albert Miller, corner of Union and Fourteenth streets, costing $25,000.

Dr. J. F. Geary, on Telegraph avenue, costing $15,000.

A. Chabot, corner of East Fifteenth and Second avenue, costing $13,000.

Judge John Garber, Claremont avenue, costing $12,000.

W. E. Hale, in the suburbs, costing $11,000.

Lloyd Vernon, on Vernon street, costing $8,500.

TILLMANN & BENDEL—Importers of JAPAN and CHINA TEAS, San Francisco and Oakland.

Carroll Cook, on Lake street and the shores of Lake Merritt, costing $12,000.

George R. Lang, on East Fourteenth street, near Thirteenth avenue, costing $7,000.

Dr. Pinkerton, on Thirteenth avenue, near East Twenty-sixth street, costing $7,500.

P. M. Moe, on the corner of Harrison and Durant streets, costing $6,000.

Mrs. Snowball, on Harrison street, near Durant, costing $5,000.

Joseph Scotchler, on Central avenue and Chestnut street, costing $3,700.

J. R. Cutting, on Chester street, near Ninth, costing $3,500.

W. F. Boardman, on Grove street, near Seventeenth, costing $3,500.

Prominent among the builders are John Ziegenbein who built about thirty houses during the year, the Real Estate Union, which erected three first-class residences on Seventeenth street near Castro, four on Ninth between Oak and Madison, three on Jackson near Tenth, averaging in cost about $5,000 each, besides several cottages.

James De Fremery, who built two large residences on Poplar street, near Fourteenth, costing $4,000 each, and E. C. Sessions, who improved Highland Park, East Oakland, by the erection of four large residences, costing $6,500 each.

Many other substantial improvements might be mentioned, as well as the names of other enterprising builders, but the above suffices to show that a good degree of enterprise prevails and that a fair number of costly and elegant houses have been erected.

Public Improvements, School Buildings, Etc.

The Hall of Records, described elsewhere, was built during the year at a cost of $75,000. The public school facilities were increased by additions to the Prescott, the Franklin and the Lincoln school buildings at a cost of $10,200, and affording an additional seating capacity of 595.

Four buildings designed for private educational purposes have been added to the already large facilities enjoyed by Oakland as an educational center. These are the English and Classical School building, erected at a cost of $2000; the St. Anthony Society building, in East Oakland, costing $4500; the new building of the Christian Brothers, costing $4000, and that of St. Mary's, costing $3000.

The Coming Year.

The year 1880 opened with fair prospects of a continued healthy activity in building enterprises. Much will depend, however, upon the return of general prosperity throughout the State, and a consequent increase of immigration. While Oakland is growing more rapidly than any other city in the State, it is the first to feel the stimulating influence of progress and success in agricultural and mining enterprises throughout the borders of the commonwealth. Since the commencement of the year, about one hundred and fifty buildings have been erected, comprising among them a number of costly private residences. One three-story brick block, that of Mr. E. Hook, has been erected on Broadway at a cost of over $20,000. Work on the Masonic Temple is progressing rapidly, and will be completed during the season, being, by odds, the finest structure in the city. A large brick block is in course of construction on Eleventh street, between Broadway and Washington. Other fine business blocks are contemplated on Broadway. Numerous elegant suburban residences are being built or will soon be commenced. Altogether, the present year's progress will probably prove eminently satisfactory.

Manufactures.

The most important manufacturing industry of Oakland is that of flour. Three mills, with large facilities, run constantly, and manufacture, in the aggregate, $1,200,000 in value per annum. From one of these mills extensive shipments are made to Asia and the Sandwich Islands.

The amount of beer produced annually by the breweries of Oakland is 600,000 gallons.

Several planing and wood-working mills supply the local demand, besides shipping quantities of dressed material abroad.

TILLMANN & BENDEL—Importers of GOLD STAR OYSTERS, San Francisco and Oakland.

Three tanneries produce annually about $90,000 value in leather.

Fruit and vegetable canning is extensively carried on in the northern suburbs of the city. Several hundred hands finding employment during the busy season.

The Oakland Bag Manufactory, located on the eastern shore of Lake Merritt, is extensively engaged in making sacks, and employs about 500 Chinamen.

There are also iron and boiler works on a limited scale, and manufactories of cigars, boots and shoes, gloves, dental goods, together with many other minor articles.

A woolen factory with a capital of one hundred thousand dollars has been organized, and its managers contemplate commencing work early the ensuing autumn.

The Public Schools.

The public schools of Oakland are a source of just pride to her citizens, affording as they do educational advantages that are unsurpassed in any city on the continent. To the admirable management of Hon. F. M. Campbell, present State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and under whose fostering care the school system of Oakland was developed and improved, much is due.

During the past year, although no new public school buildings have been erected, some considerable additions have been made to the school accommodations. Four rooms each have been added to the Prescott, Franklin, and Lincoln school buildings, affording seats for 595 pupils.

The school census taken in June, 1879, shows the following result:

Municipal Finances.

The following statement from the books of the City Clerk and Treasurer, Mr. James Dods, will show the receipts and disbursements on municipal account for the year 1879. There is an increase in the receipts over the preceding year of $11,000 ; the aggregate being $458,954 35 against $447,967 78 for the year 1878. The expenditures were $285,688 26, for all purposes except public schools, the latter costing $174,220 81, bringing the total up to $459,910 07, about $20,000 less than for the year 1878. It is noticeable that the sum of $17,000 was paid for teachers salaries in excess of the sum paid in 1878. General current expenses were about the same. A liberal sum was paid to secure the advantages of the Free Library, namely about $13,000. Judiciously managed this is money well expended.

THE BONDED DEBT.

The bonded debt of the city is $654,000, the amount be-

The latter item of $173,000 is payable by property owners interested, the city extending its guarantee.

The issue of bonds to fund the present floating debt is discussed, and would undoubtedly prove a beneficial measure.

Municipal Licenses.

Under the operations of a new license law, which went into effect July 1, 1879, the revenues from municipal licenses have been materially increased. The total amount of revenue derived from licenses during the year 1879 was in excess of $53,000, against $45,000 for the preceding year. Even with the prevailing dullness, it seems that a greater number of licenses are taken out than ever before. The increase, however, is unquestionably the result of a more efficient service. Formerly the duties of License Collector were performed in the City Marshal's office, where the great variety of duties required to be performed by an inadequate force necessarily led to the omission of some collections. Under a new ordinance the office of License Collector is made a separate one, and on April 1st of the present year Mr. J. A. Booth entered upon its supervision. The first quarter of his administration will end on the 30th of June. For the first quarter of the present year 1,348 licenses were issued; during the second quarter, to the 18th of June, 1,242 had been issued and the sum of $12,086.50 collected, being a very considerable increase. During the latter half of 1879, 2,881 licenses were issued. Up to June 15, 1880, and since July 1, 1879, there had gone out of business 66 dealers in general merchandise, 35 dealers in liquors, and 162 produce peddlers, a large share of the latter class being Chinese. During the present quarter, and well illustrating the vitality of trade in Oakland, 70 new business places have opened—31 for general merchandise, 6 bars, and 33 miscellaneous—and 56 places doing business without license have been discovered and now conform to the law. This very important branch of the city's revenues is now efficiently managed, and all persons compelled to share equally in maintaining the burdens of the city government.

Street Improvements.

The past year has been one of much activity throughout Oakland in the matter of street work. The city has now a large extent of beautiful streets, forming many fine drives, and attracting the universal admiration of strangers. During the current year, ending April 1, 1880, work was done as follows: Number of linear feet of streets macadamized, 42,643 (something over eight miles); cost of same, $117,957.80. Linear feet graded and curbed, 14,855; cost of same, $5,772.30. Feet of sidewalks laid, 2,294; cost, $895.09. Feet of sewers constructed, 17,773; cost, $16,857.62. Total cost of improvements on streets for the year, $141,482.81. Under the operation of the new organic law little work is in progress, although there remains a vast amount to be accomplished before the streets of the city can be considered in a finished condition.

Fire Department.

The Fire Department of the city of Oakland comprises four steamers, five two-wheel hose carts with 3,700 feet of hose, two hook and ladder trucks, fifty-eight officers and men, one hundred and sixty hydrants, five cisterns and forty-six fire alarm stations, under the management of Mr. James Hill, Chief of the department. Much efficient service has been performed during the year and the ravages of fire curtailed to the most limited proportions.

During the year one new hose company has been organized and supplied with apparatus. It is located on the corner of San Pablo avenue and Market street.

The expenses of the Fire Department of Oakland for the past year have been as follows:

Salaries.....	$20,514 84
New hose, horses, etc.....	5,599 67
Hydrants.....	1,409 09
Miscellaneous and running expenses.....	6,534 17

Fires of the Year.

The number of fires during the year 1879 was fifty-two, entailing a loss of $104,804, covered by insurance to the amount of $114,975; the amount of insurance paid was $61,814.

The following is a list of the fires of the year in which the losses were $1,000 or upwards:

The Harbor of Oakland.

The harbor facilities of Oakland, with a moderate degree of improvement, might surpass any on the coast if not upon the continent. The fact of deep water on the other side of the Bay determined the location of the commercial metropolis. It is safe to say, however, that the expenditure of one-tenth the sum of money used in transforming the site of the great peninsular city into a habitable place, would, had it been used on the main land, have developed far superior facilities to those now enjoyed by our metropolitan neighbor.

An artificial harbor is afforded by the estuary of San Antonio, which opening into the main bay, opposite the city of San Francisco, extends inland for something over two miles on the southern boundary of Oakland. The improvement of this estuary has been the theme of discussion for years, and many plans have been proposed and some partially carried into effect.

In 1860 about $30,000 was expended in dredging the channel across the bar at the mouth of the estuary. In 1868 a further sum of $15,000 was likewise expended. Finally, so evident was the importance of the work, that the national government interested itself in the matter. In 1873 a bill passed Congress, and was approved by the President, appointing a Board of Commissioners to survey the harbor of San Antonio Creek and submit plans for its improvement to an extent that sea-going vessels might enter. The first official report was made in February, 1874, and reports have since been made yearly.

The important matters to consider, were to what the estuary could be developed so as to make it a commercial harbor, the number and character of vessels it could accommodate if so developed, and the cost of the enterprise. The area of the estuary is about 900 acres, and it is evident to all, that if so improved as to admit vessels of any tonnage, however large, that it would supply ample space for all that would enter the Bay of San Francisco.

It was decided to erect parallel training walls from the mouth of the creek to deep water. The effect of these walls would be to confine the flow of water from the estuary at ebb tide to a narrow space, and thus washing out the sand between them. The cost of this preliminary work was estimated at about one-half million of dollars. It was also estimated that nearly one and one-half millions of dollars additional would be necessary to complete the excavation and dredging of the harbor proper.

Jonas J. Morrison will sell you Cheaper and Better Lumber than any one in the trade. Try him.

Congress in 1874 appropriated $100,000, and a like amount in 1875, to commence active work on this grand scheme of harbor improvement. During 1875 and 1876 parallel lines of wall were constructed, and a large amount of dredging done at the mouth of the harbor. Additional appropriations have from time to time been made, until, including one made by the Congress recently adjourned, the total amounts to $415,000, of which it is claimed that $160,000 is unspent and immediately available.

Interruption to the work occurred in 1878, owing to a claim set up by the Water Front Company to the frontage upon the estuary, while willing to cede to the Government a channel of 400 feet in width, and claiming all outside that channel. The approval of the City Council was asked to this claim and not obtained. The Government, through the advice of its engineers, refused to permit a further expenditure of the appropriations made, so long as any adverse claim to the waters of the estuary remained unsettled. Hence, this invaluable work has been for a long time suspended. The recent action of Congress in making a new appropriation of $60,000 it is believed will be approved by all parties in interest. The conditions are, simply, that the sum so appropriated; and the amount heretofore unexpended, shall not be available until the right of the United States to the bed of the estuary and training walls of this work is secured without expense to the Government, in a manner satisfactory to the Secretary of War.

The United States Government has always had the right to any portion of the water front necessary for the purposes of commerce. It is hoped and firmly believed by all interested in the growth and commercial prosperity of Oakland that nothing more will be heard of adverse claims, and that work will be vigorously prosecuted upon the improvement of the harbor.

Central Pacific Railroad Improvements.

While the water-front controversy has been going on, the Central Pacific Railroad Company has been engaged in improving the western water-front. A solid causeway of rock and earth has been constructed out to deep water on the bay. The long wharf, over two miles in extent, will be abandoned, and passengers landed at new ferry slips on terra firma. The length of this causeway is about one mile, and its width from 120 to 300 feet. The freight traffic, including the loading of wheat ships, is to be removed from the end of the old wharf to new wharves on Oakland Harbor. Capacious warehouses for the reception of wheat, wool and other articles intended for export by sea will soon be built, and the trade that so properly belongs on the main land will be done there. It is estimated that the sum to be expended in these gigantic improvements will not be less than five millions of dollars.

South Pacific Coast Railway.

Much opposition was made to the entrance of this line of road into Oakland by the way of Webster street bridge. An ordinance was passed granting the right of way upon Webster street from the southern line of the city to Fourteenth street. An injunction was obtained, but subsequently set aside by the Courts. Work has been commenced on the road, and a portion of the track laid. An iron bridge to cross the estuary at the foot of Webster street has been ordered by the Company, and will shortly be in position. The present terminus of the road will be at Twelfth or Fourteenth street, on Webster. This road now extends southward to Santa Cruz, and will be extended northward with various branches. It is expected that this new line will greatly add to the local trade of Oakland, especially from Contra Costa County.

The Tunnel.

Work on this important enterprise is progressing with a good degree of vigor. About one hundred men are employed, and its successful completion is an unquestioned fact. The trade of a rich outlying farming district will be made tributary to Oakland by means of this tunnel through the San Pablo range. It is not improbable that it will be made use of by narrow gauge railway lines as well as vehicles.

SIXTH WARD.—Comprises all that portion of the city lying east of Broadway street and south of Tenth street.

SEVENTH WARD.—Comprises all that portion of the city lying in Brooklyn Township, now known and designated as East Oakland.

OAKLAND FIRE DEPARTMENT.

It is not necessary to follow the history of the Oakland Fire Department from its inception to its regeneration and permanent establishment. James Hill was appointed chief engineer January, 1878; Edgar A. Hersey and E. M. Campbell, assistant engineers. The service has been brought to a good state of efficiency.

A Fire Alarm Telegraph, with thirty-five miles of wire, has been recently constructed, and forty-six automatic fire boxes provided, which number will be increased. Gongs have also been placed in all the engine houses. George H. Carleton, Superintendent of Fire and Police Telegraph.

The city is now the owner of four engine houses and four lots, viz.: A brick engine house on the north side of Sixth street, between Broadway and Washington, built in 1875, accommodating the Felton Engine Company, Empire Hose, No. 1, and Hook and Ladder Companies; a house and lot on Fifteenth, near Washington, occupied by Phoenix Company, No. 1; a lot, with house newly completed thereon, of brick, one story in height, on Eighth street, between Willow and Campbell, West Oakland; a brick house in East Oakland, on East 14th street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth avenues, occupied by Brooklyn Company, No. 4, and Hook and Ladder, No. 2.

it, and pull down the hook on the inside once, or until you hear a bell within the box, close the door, and remain to direct the firemen to the locality of the fire.

Do not try to take your key out, as it is locked in, and will be returned to you.

If, upon opening the door, you hear the bell within the box ring, do not pull the hook for one minute, or until it has stopped ringing, for it will indicate that an alarm is being sent from some other station.

Persons having keys will be held responsible for their use. Do not give an alarm for a fire seen at a distance; do not open the box except in case of fire; do not give an alarm until certain there is a fire.

Keys can be obtained by any responsible person upon application to the Chief Engineer, at his office, or to the Superintendent of Fire Alarm and Police Telegraph, City Hall.

The expenses of the Department for the year are thus summarized:

The University of California.

The University of California is located at Berkeley, the most northerly suburb of Oakland, situated about four and one-half miles from the city, and is reached by a horse railway from Oakland, and by ferry and steam railroad from San Francisco. That the site was well chosen may be seen by the following from the (manuscript) report of Professor Soulé:

“The diversified character of the surface brings into use all the principles of surveying and topography. It is in area 200 acres, is watered by numerous springs in the hills.

With the spring water and surface water saved, the grounds can be thoroughly irrigated throughout the year, and made to blossom as the rose. The lower portion of the grounds is flat and moist throughout the year, and will nourish such trees, flowers and shrubs as require such soil. Then there is a higher plateau, upon which the various buildings have been or are to be located, forming the campus proper. Beyond, toward the Mt. Diablo range, the ground rises into hills, the highest of which is 884 feet above tide water, and 584 feet above the base of the south college. The average height of the tract is 400 feet above tide water. The hilly portion could be well utilized for forestry. The University is supplied with water from a reservoir of 38,000 gallons capacity, situated at the foot of Strawberry Canyon, and at an elevation of 205 feet above the basement of the south college. It will carry water entirely over any building contemplated. Strawberry Creek is for a large portion of the year a beautifully clear stream; during the winter it discharges an enormous quantity of water, and runs between steep banks ten to fifteen feet in depth, and with a span of from 30 to 100 feet. Along it are found many shady, quiet nooks, gracious to the scholar, philosopher and naturalist. The soil of the lower portion of the site is a deep, rich adobe, capable of being wrought into a soil of great productiveness; on the plateau it is a lighter kind; on the hills there is a thin soil of decomposed shale rock, etc. It would be difficult to find within so small an area as the University site a spot with so many varieties and capabilities in the way of soils, irrigation and exposure. The view, too, is magnificent. Facing the Golden Gate, the eye takes in the whole peninsula at a sweep, with its great mart of commerce, its shipping, and the bold yet lovely islands that deck the bay, while to the eastward the towering hills afford a fine back-ground of relief to the eye, as it turns from the extended plain below."

The Constitution of the State requires the legislature to provide for the maintenance of a University, and in March, 1868, a law was passed creating an organizing the University of California. The State appropriated $200,000 from the sale of tide lands, as part of the Endowment Fund. A "Seminary and Public Building Fund," amounting to $100,000, existed, which was made another part of the endowment, while the old College of California, which had been in existence since 1855, and had accumulated a large property, transferred it entire to the University; this latter property was valued at $120,000. Congress had already made a donation of 150,000 acres of land for the establishment of an Agricultural College in California. Nothing could be more pertinent or proper than making the Agricultural College a part and portion of the University, and it was done. This combination of circumstances gives the University a very handsome Endowment Fund, which will be largely increased from the advance in real estate held by it under the grants. Two large and commodious buildings were occupied, though not fully completed, at the commencement of the college year, in September, 1873.

The south hall is of brick, one hundred and fifty-two feet in length, average width fifty-six feet, and four stories in height. It contains thirty-four rooms, six of which are thirty-two by forty-eight in size.

The north hall is built of wood, is one hundred and sixty-six feet in length, average width sixty feet, and four stories in height. It is divided into twenty-eight rooms. The assembly room is forty-three by fifty-eight feet, and the philosophical lecture room thirty-six by fifty-eight feet. The cost was $357,000.

The funds for the erection of the Mechanical Arts College Building were appropriated by the Legislature of 1875-76 in answer to a petition setting forth the need of facilities for instruction in Mining and Mechanical Engineering. The building has been constructed in accordance with these wants. It contains a fire-proof engine-room, from which power will be conveyed to two large apartments, each about twenty-eight feet square, intended for such experimental work involving the use of light machinery as may be desirable in the respective departments. A series of rooms furnishes facilities for the dry assay of ores, the furnace-room being completely fire-proof. There is another suite for wet assays. There are also rooms for drawing, for collection of models. etc., store-rooms, a lathe-room, two ample lecture-rooms, a library-room, offices for instructors, and an attic which will serve for bulky stores, or even for purposes of instruction should more space be needed. The building is very solidly built of brick, and is provided with gas and water-pipes at all points where they are likely to be needed.

The last Legislature appropriated ten thousand dollars for the equipment of this building and the expenses of the two departments accommodated in it. Increased resources are, however, urgently needed, both departments being very inadequately furnished either with instructors or with apparatus. It is hoped that these necessary departments of the University, which are attractive to students even in their present partially organized state, will not long labor under the disadvantage of insufficient means.

In November, 1877, H. D. Bacon, Esq., announced to the Board of Regents his intention of giving to the University his "valuable collection of works of art, sculpture, and paintings, and a library of several thousand volumes of standard and miscellaneous works, together with twenty-five thousand dollars in money, provided the State appropriated a like sum, at the next meeting of the Legislature, to be used conjointly in erecting the first subdivision of the building to be dedicated to the purposes of a repository for a vast library and galleries for the exhibition of the æsthetic arts." The appropriation was made by a special Act of the Legislature, approved April 1st, 1878.

In October, 1878, Mr. A. K. P. Harmon, of Oakland, intimated to the authorities of the University his intention to erect, at his own expense, an appropriate building for a Gymnasium, so planned as to be of service upon public occasions as an auditorium, etc. After an inspection of the University site by the Committee on Buildings and Grounds and Mr. Harmon, the spot designated on Hall's plan for an Assembly Hall was finally selected, the same being acceptable to Mr. Harmon, and the construction of the building at once commenced and vigorously prosecuted, under the charge of Mr. McKillican. The building, a very neat and substantial structure, was completed about the middle of January.

The institution embraces eight distinct colleges, as follows: Scientific, Agriculture, Mechanics, Engineering, Chemistry, Mining, Medicine and Law.

In the College of Letters the Degree conferred is that of A. B.; in the College of Science, Bachelor of Philosophy, and in the College of Medicine, M. D.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE.—Instruction is given by experimental and illustrated lectures, recitations, essays and class discussions, and in the practical illustrations of principles upon the University grounds.

COLLEGE OF MECHANICS.—This college educates mechanical engineers and constructive machinists. Advanced classes are instructed in civil engineering to the extent necessary for the purposes of this college, including Mathematics, Physics and Theoretical Mechanics. But the chief object will be to teach Applied or Industrial Mechanics; to show how the forces of Nature are employed for industrial purposes; and to discuss the nature of the different constructions or machines contrived by human ingenuity. Special attention is given to Industrial Drawing, with view to thorough education in the principles of construction of machinery.

COLLEGE OF MINING.—In this college are given courses of

S. F. LAUNDRY. Good Work, Low Prices

lectures on Chemistry, Metallurgy, Geology, Minerology, Mining and Engineering. The laboratories are ample to conduct the most refined investigation.

COLLEGE OF CHEMISTRY.—The course of instruction in the College of Chemistry is designed for those who wish to become professional chemists, either as teachers and investigators, or as metallurgists, assayers, and manufacturers in chemical industries; and also for those who wish to become expert chemists preparatory to the pursuit of medicine, pharmacy, mining, etc.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING.—The object of this college is to give thorough instruction in those studies which pertain to the profession of a civil engineer. In the advanced years instruction is also given in Physics, Geology, Zoology, and in certain literary branches, including Modern Languages, History, and Political Economy.

COLLEGE OF LETTERS.—The College of Letters maintains two courses, the Classical and the Literary. The former corresponds with the general course of studies in the great colleges of the Eastern States and England. The latter affords a most complete and thorough training in Modern Languages, Literature, History, etc.

Applicants for admission should be at least sixteen years of age, and bring satisfactory testimonials. Young ladies as well as young men are received as students. There is no charge whatever for tuition.

The number of students now attending the University is 264. In addition, in the colleges of Law, Medicine, and Pharmacy, there are 260 students. Total, 524.

COLLEGE OF MEDICINE.—Is held at Toland Hall in San Francisco, and affords ample opportunities for acquiring the highest degree of excellence in the theories of the profession.

COLLEGE OF PHARMACY.—Lectures are delivered twice a week in the Hall of the Academy of Sciences, San Francisco.

COLLEGE OF LAW.—The entire course of instruction extends through three academic years, and the school is separated into three classes corresponding to these three years, known respectively as Junior, Middle, and Senior.

Classical and English School.

George Frederic Degen, A. M., Principal.

This School has had a new and extensive building erected at 1265 Franklin street.

It has been in successful operation five years. The Principal, Prof. Degen, received his training in the schools of Boston and of Harvard University, and has had a large experience as a teacher.

The plan of instruction at this school is worthy of notice. It is a combination of the lecture and the text-book systems. Everything is made of the principles which underlie the subject to be studied, and these are carefully explained until the student professes to understand them clearly. He is then required to commit them to memory.

The illustrations and the examples given in the book are used merely to assist in this first explanation, or by the pupil, for practice, in studying the lesson, and are as often "worked" by the teacher as the student. At recitation, new examples, which the student has never before seen, are presented to him to test his knowledge of the principles of which he is required first to state, either in his own language or in that of the book, but clearly and correctly.

By this system of teaching, as distinguished from mere hearing of lessons, the pupil is lead to think for himself while gathering knowledge from others, and is thus truly educated.

The School is steadily growing in public favor.

California Medical College—(Eclectic.)

Southwest corner Clay and Eleventh. This institution was built in 1878, and was opened for students in 1879. It receives pupils of both sexes. Number of students, first term, 44. It is designed to afford a thorough training in all branches of medicine. The regular term begins on the first Monday in November and the intermediate on the first Monday in June. Dr. Alex. MacRae, Dean.

The Morgan Conservatory of Music.

Location, 528 Eighteenth street.

This institution was established about three years since, under the direction of the late Mr. John P. Morgan, and its success, so far, has demonstrated the great necessity for such a school upon this coast. Its object is to afford students an opportunity of obtaining a complete and thorough course of instruction, both in the theory and practice of music.

To attain this end the best talent in the State is employed, and the number of teachers will be increased as necessity demands. It is now under the direction of Mr. Stephen W. Leach.

California Military Academy.

Rev. David McClure, Principal.

Located on east side of Telegraph avenue, near Prospect avenue. The military system of drilling and discipline has been adopted to secure physical culture, promptness, presence of mind and its attendant results.

State Deaf and Dumb, and Blind Asylum.

This institution is located near the State University at Berkeley. The farm consists of one hundred and thirty acres, eighty acres of which are on the hills fronting the bay, Pure water is supplied by hillside springs, and the elevated site insures the purest of air. Altogether, a better location could not have been chosen. On the 17th of January, 1875, the beautiful and costly stone building occupied by the institution was destroyed by fire, and the exigencies of the case, with more than a hundred helpless unfortunates to shelter and provide for, were indeed great. But the spirit of energy, coupled with that of benevolence, which inspires the citizens of Alameda County, found means to build a temporary structure without delay, and, as early as April 21st, three months from the time of the disaster, the school was again opened. Plans for permanent buildings have been made, and are now being carried out. They provide for a series of structures including "Homes," a central refectory, school-house, etc., all of which, when completed, will accommodate two hundred and fifty pupils. The buildings are of the most substantial character, having concrete and stone foundations, brick superstructure, walls lined with hollow brick, slate roofs, all partitions of brick, and stone stair-cases throughout. Every arrangement to secure health and comfort has been made, while the system of segregation adopted will not only be a safeguard against fire, but do away with many evils connected with the herding of large numbers under one roof.

The course of studies pursued at this institute is very nearly the same as that embraced in the public schools and in the seminaries, with the addition of music, which is taught the blind as a means of obtaining a livelihood. The institution is sustained by the State, but clothing and traveling expenses must be provided by the parents or guardians of the children, except in cases of extreme poverty, when a proper certificate from the County Judge will authorize the directors to supply clothing.

The management of the institution is entrusted to a Board of five Directors, appointed by the Governor. The present Board consists of the following named gentlemen: J. Mora Moss, J. A. Stanly, E. J. Crane, Thomas Yolland, Oakland, and I. Wormser, San Francisco. Warring Wilkinson, Principal. H. A. Palmer, Secretary and Treasurer.

Instructors in the Deaf and Dumb Department: George B. Goodall, William A. Caldwell, Henry Frank, Douglas Tilden, Miss Phebe Wright and Miss Nettie Stewart.

Instructors in the Blind Department: Charles T. Wilkinson, George B. Goodall and Mrs. A. R. Goodall.

MORTUARY REPORT.

Oakland is, beyond a doubt, the most healthful city on the continent. The death rate in 1879 is shown by the official reports to be 9.65. The number of deaths in 1879 was 410, of which 222 were males and 188 females. In addition to this there were 27 still births.

There were 473 births. The excess of births over deaths was 63. The birth rate is much higher, but cannot be accurately stated, as a number of physicians have not complied with the ordinance, compelling them to make monthly reports.

STREET AND AVENUE GUIDE.

The original town site of Oakland is laid out in blocks three hundred feet in length from east to west, and two hundred feet in breadth from north to south, streets running at right angles. This portion of the present city extends from the water line formed by Lake Merritt and San Antonio Creek on the east and south, to Fourteenth street on the north and Market street on the west. The territory bounded by Market street on the east and by San Francisco Bay on the west, has been laid out in general, though not universal conformity to the plan of Oakland proper. North of Fourteenth street and west of San Pablo avenue, there is a good degree of regularity; but to the eastward of San Pablo avenue the land has been subdivided according to the caprice of the owners of the numerous "tracts" which, from time to time, have been placed on the market in the shape of city lots. Hence, the streets in this part of the city have little continuity or regularity. The great thoroughfares of San Pablo and Telegraph avenues, and Market street, tri-sect the city diagonally, giving a triangular form to a large amount of real property. East Front street, which is the street lying on the westerly shore of Lake Merritt and San Antonio Creek, forms the initial point for numbering the houses on streets running westward therefrom, and South Front street forms the initial point for all streets running northward therefrom.

East Oakland, or Brooklyn, is laid out regularly. The numbering commences at First avenue, increasing toward the east, and at an imaginary extension of South Front street increasing toward the north. Fifty numbers are allotted to each block throughout the entire city, with a few special exceptions. The plan is such that the numbers in each tier of blocks are identical throughout the city.

ALSO,

Printers, Lithographers, Engravers and Binders.

The most complete business of its kind in the country. It is thoroughly systematized and divided into departments—each being in charge of a competent Manager—as mentioned below.

Wholesale Department. Headquarters located on the first floor. All business connected with the wholesale and jobbing trade is referred to it. The immense stock of Stationery in all its branches, occupying portions of three floors, is under its management.

Retail and Library Department. On the first floor. Whatever is for sale in this entire establishment can be purchased at retail in this department. The miscellaneous, scientific, medical and theological books are specially under its supervision. All are thoroughly classified, there being nearly two hundred divisions and subdivisions, embracing every prominent subject of reference.

Law Department. On the first floor. It embraces the law books—over one hundred volumes; and the legal blanks—over 1500—published by the firm; and a very large and complete stock of text-books and reports imported from the East and Great Britain.

Educational Department. On the first floor. It includes such school books and school stationery as are published and manufactured by the firm, and an immense stock of school books, school apparatus and school furniture imported from the East. The main stock is stored in deep alcoves extending along nearly one entire side of the basement.

Bank and Official Department. Printing, Lithographing, Engraving and Blank Book Manufacturing, especially for Banks and Public Officers. Also, the best qualities of Stationery for their use always in quantities.

Music Department. Embraces several lines of pianos, square and upright, and a large variety of cabinet organs and melodeons. Also a fine stock of sheet music and music books. Latest music periodicals kept on file for free reference.

Subscription Department. On the second floor. The firm has the agency for the best and most popular subscription books, maps and pictures published in the East and has a large corps of sub-agents constantly in the field in every part of the coast. Agents wanted.

Printing and Lithographing Department. This department occupies the entire third floor, and has the necessary steam presses and machinery for executing all kinds of printing, Lithographing, engraving, initial stamping, etc.

Blank Book Manufacturing Department. Occupies the entire fourth floor, 75 by 170; contains the most complete set of machinery for ruling, folding, binding and manufacturing blank books to be found on the Pacific Coast. The machinery of the printing and binding departments is propelled by an engine and boiler located under the Stevenson Street sidewalk.

Publishing Department. Bancroft's Historical Library, on the fifth floor, is the basis of important scientific and descriptive works of a local nature, and maps and books of reference relating to the Pacific Coast, to be issued by the firm from time to time.

The stock of merchandise and manufactures comprised in the above Departments is the most complete and varied of any single establishment in this line of business to be found in any country in the world. Special lines of goods and special features of the business are mentioned below.

CLASSICAL AND ENGLISH SCHOOL

1265 Franklin Street,

OAKLAND.

GEORGE FREDERIC DEGEN, A. M.,	- - - - -	Principal
ISAAC WRIGHT, A. M.,	- - - - -	Instructor in Mathematics
Mrs. W. A. WALTER,	- - - - -	Primary Classes

The special aim of this School is to prepare Students for the University, or for Eastern Colleges. Younger pupils are also received, and trained in a Primary or Grammar School Course.

The system of instruction is based upon careful explanation of principles, frequent reviews, and steady and persistent drill. The number of pupils in each room is limited strictly to twenty, so that the pupil receives at once all the advantages of class association and of individual instruction.

Terms, Eight and Ten Dollars per Month. Payable in Advance.

For further information, apply to or address the Principal, 662 Twenty-Fourth Street, Oakland.

BERKELEY DIRECTORY.

BERKELEY.

This picturesquely located town is known throughout the State as the site of the California University, and the home of many institutions of learning, which have given it a distinctive character. It is advantageously located on rolling land, and commands a pleasant and comprehensive view of the Bay of San Francisco and the Golden Gate, and is much sought for as a place of residence by those whose inclinations lead toward a quiet and educational suburb. It is growing rapidly, real estate being held at reasonable rates and offered on easy terms of payment.

MANUFACTORIES.

Its manufacturing interest, are represented by the Standard Soap Company, and the Acid and Powder Works.

During the past year the Presbyterian Church has erected a handsome church edifice, and a new public school building has been completed. Improvements during the past year have been of a substantial character, and mark the result of a healthful and permanent growth.

ALAMEDA DIRECTORY.

ALAMEDA.

No town upon either side of the Bay has shown so marked and material a progress during the past year as Alameda, while its population shows an increase over former estimates—the census enumeration showing a total of 5,194. Besides the important manufacturing interests which have centered here, and which have given the town an impetus in an industrial way, private enterprise has sought very many channels through which to beautify and make attractive this Newport of the Pacific. In point of attractiveness of location, pleasant and healthful surroundings, educational facilities and choice of competing lines of travel to and from the metropolis, Alameda is abundantly favored. The Central Pacific Railroad runs through the northern portion of the town, and the South Pacific Railroad (narrow gauge) through the southern portion, bringing residence lots within a few minutes walk of a railroad station, and placing Alameda in half-hourly communication with San Francisco. A feature which has brought this charming town into prominence as a place of permanent residence and summer resort is the maintenance of the numerous bathing establishments which form an almost continuous chain upon the available part of the Alameda beach and are fitted up with every attention to comfort and safety, while in the way of luxurious surroundings and appointments the Alameda baths, collectively, are far superior to many of the noted watering places of the East. In the near future—within a month, as the present arrangements contemplate—the town will be supplied by water from the mains of the Alameda Artesian Water Company, whose works are now nearly completed. The plan contemplates a supply 900,000 gallons per day, with a pressure, when required, sufficient to force water over the highest buildings without the aid of engines.

Improvements and Real Estate.

During the past year a ten thousand dollar school-house has been built, and all of the school-houses have been altered or repaired, with the result of more than doubling the school accommodations. Besides the educational facilities extended by these, there are several well-conducted private schools and academies which are liberally maintained. During the same period over two hundred new dwelling-houses have been built, and the proportion of fine residences, costing from $4,000 upwards, is a marked feature of the season. Among the improvements now under way are several handsome residences, and a substantial building on the corner of Central avenue and Park street, designed as the tank building and offices of the Artesian Water Co. From the inactivity of the real estate market and the general depreciation of real estate values throughout the State during the past two years, Alameda has been notably exempt, the sales as reported by "Mix's Transcript of Records" numbering 460, while lots are now selling in the most rapidly improving localities at an advance of $50 to $100 upon the prices of 1878. In the way of street improvements may be mentioned the macadamizing of Park street, and the grading and graveling of Encinal, Santa Clara and Webb avenues, while the most important streets, including Park, Oak, Walnut, Union, Lafayette and Webster, have been substantially sewered.

Manufactories.

The most notable additions to the manufacturing interests of Alameda during the past year have been the establishing of the refinery works of the Pacific Oil Company, dealing with petroleum and its products, and employing a large capital in the business, and the construction of the Royal Soap Work on the shore line between the narrow gauge landing and the Alameda wharf. Each of these enterprises gives employment to a large number of persons and calls for heavy investments of capital. The former concern is the only oil refinery on the Coast, and is intended to be one of the most complete in the United States and will handle all of the crude oils now produced in the State, while its operation will stimulate prospecting and further developments in the oil region. The buildings cover nearly ten acres of ground, and are supplied with machinery and appliances of the most approved pattern. The company depends for its supply of crude oils principally upon the wells of the Santa Cruz, Santa Clara and Ventura districts, which are now yielding a considerable supply and where new wells are being sunk.

From this brief review it will be seen that the growth of the town the past year has been of a healthful and satisfactory kind, while the present outlook gives encouragement of increased improvements and unchecked prosperity.

Artificial Limbs.

REED ROBERT, 954 Broadway, room 10
SPRING MENZO, 9 Geary, S. F.

Should you wish to purchase an Artificial Limb, it would be well for you to call and examine my improvements on the same before purchasing elsewhere. I manufacture Dr. Bly's celebrated Artificial Legs and Arms, with Reed's Improved Ankle Joint with lateral or side motion like the natural one.

No Charge for Repairing my Work when Warranted.

A WORD TO SURGEONS. — Never, under any circumstances whatever, amputate lower than the junction of the middle and lower thirds, as that will give a stump of as much length as is of any use to the patient in handling an Artificial Leg.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue and Testimonials on Artificial Limbs and Amputations for the same, sent free on application.

N. B.—I manufacture Artificial Limbs and Orthopedical Instruments 25 per cent. cheaper than any other manufacturer on the Pacific Coast.

ROBERT REED,
954 Broadway, Oakland, Cal.

Jonas J. Morrison, Lumber Dealer, N. E. cor. Mission and Spear Sts., S. F., has large shed filled with well seasoned Lumber.

Without Lateral Motion.

If you cannot read this print distinctly by lamp or gaslight in the evening, at a distance of 10 inches, your eyes are failing, no matter what your age and your eyes need help. Your sight can be improved and preserved if properly corrected. It is a wrong idea that spectacles should be dispensed with as long as possible. If they assist the vision, wear them. There is no danger of seeing too well, so long as the print is not magnified; it should look natural size, but plain. Don't fail to call and have your eyes tested.
